Tour of Scotland - Covenanter's Wood

Photo Orienteering

Identify from the map the 6 controls shown in the photographs.

Covenanter's Wood is a small area of woodland in the south west of Edinburgh used for local orienteering events. Although a small wood there is plenty of history with the area originally the grounds of the now destroyed Dreghorn Castle, as well as training trenches dug by the army during 1st and 2nd World Wars and a tree planted by the Prince of Siam whilst he trained at the adjacent barracks. Thanks to ESOC for the use of the map.
